Knowledge Co-Creation Program (Group & Region Focus)

General information on

Hospital Management (C) (Online & In Japan) 課題別研修「病院経営（C）」(遠隔＋本邦研修) JFY 2025

Course No.: 202413531J001

Online Program Period: From Feb. 2, 2026 to Feb. 6, 2026

Course Period in Japan: From Feb. 8, 2026 to Mar. 12, 2026

This information pertains to one of the JICA Knowledge Co-Creation Programs (Group & Region Focus) of the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA) implemented as part of the Official Development Assistance of the Government of Japan based on bilateral agreement between both Governments.

JICA Knowledge Co-Creation Program (KCCP)

The Japanese Cabinet released the Development Cooperation Charter in June 2023, which stated, "In its development cooperation, Japan has maintained the spirit of jointly creating things that suit partner countries while respecting ownership, intentions and intrinsic characteristics of the country concerned based on a field-oriented approach through dialogue and collaboration. It has also maintained the approach of building reciprocal relationships with developing countries in which both sides learn from each other and grow and develop together." JICA believes that this 'Knowledge Co-Creation Program' will serve as a foundation of mutual learning process.

I. Concept

Background

In the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), goal 3 (health and well-being) includes the achievement of "universal health coverage (UHC)." UHC means that "all people have access to appropriate health promotion, disease prevention, treatment, and functional restoration services at an affordable cost." In order to achieve UHC, the six components of the health system framework proposed by the World Health Organization (WHO), which are (1) service delivery, (2) health workforce, (3) information, (4) medical products, vaccines & technologies, (5) financing, and (6) leadership/governance, are required to be strengthened.

Particularly in low- and middle-income countries, where the efficient use of scarce resources to achieve health goals is of paramount importance, strengthening health systems is a question of how to manage these components effectively. With these points in mind, this "Hospital Management" course aims to help human resources responsible for hospital management in low- and middle-income countries learn the know-how necessary to improve health and medical services. Each lecture in the course is organized according to the components of a health system. Through this, each participant will be able to analyze and identify hospital management problems and solutions from the perspective of health system management, and systematize them as concrete projects. These will be proposed as action plans that will serve as the final product, and by putting them into practice after returning home, each participant is expected to contribute to strengthening the health system of their country through hospital management.

For what?

This program is designed for the manager of a regional core hospital for its efficient and effective management, using administrative methods.

For whom?

This program is offered to human resources who are currently engaged in hospital management.

How?

Participants shall have opportunities in Japan to grasp the actual conditions of hospitals in Japan and learn how to manage a hospital. And participants will take part in a workshop of a problem-solving method in order for them to analyze and tackle with the issues/problems they are currently facing. With this knowledge, they will formulate an action plan, which describes the activities to perform after they go back to their home countries.

JICA and Capacity Development

Technical cooperation is people-to-people cooperation that supports partner countries in enhancing their comprehensive capacities to address development challenges by their own efforts. Instead of applying Japanese technology per se to partner countries, JICA's technical cooperation provides solutions that best fit their needs by working with people living there. In the process, consideration is given to factors such as their regional characteristics, historical background, and languages. JICA does not limit its technical cooperation to human resources development; it offers multi-tiered assistance that also involves organizational strengthening, policy formulation, and institution building.

Implementation methods of JICA's technical cooperation can be divided into two approaches. One is overseas cooperation by dispatching experts and volunteers in various development sectors to partner countries; the other is domestic cooperation by inviting participants from developing countries to Japan. The latter method is the Knowledge Co-Creation Program, formerly called Training Program, and it is one of the core programs carried out in Japan. By inviting officials from partner countries and with cooperation from domestic partners, the Knowledge Co-Creation Program provides technical knowledge and practical solutions for development issues in participating countries.

The Knowledge Co-Creation Program (Group & Region Focus) has long occupied an important place in JICA operations. About 400 pre-organized courses cover a wide range of professional fields, ranging from education, health, infrastructure, energy, trade and finance, to agriculture, rural development, gender mainstreaming, and environmental protection. A variety of programs is being customized by the different target organizations to address the specific needs, such as policy-making organizations, service provision organizations, as well as research and academic institutions. Some programs are organized to target a certain group of countries with similar developmental challenges.

Japanese Development Experience

Japan, as the first non-Western nation to become a developed country, built itself into a country that is free, peaceful, prosperous and democratic while preserving its tradition. Japan will serve as one of the best examples for our partner countries to follow in their own development.

From engineering technology to production management methods, most of the know-how that has enabled Japan to become what it is today has emanated from a process of adoption and adaptation, of course, has been accompanied by countless failures and errors behind the success stories.

Through Japan's progressive adaptation and application of systems, methods, and technologies from the West in a way that is suited to its own circumstances, Japan has developed a storehouse of knowledge not found elsewhere from unique systems of organization, administration and personnel management to such social systems as the livelihood improvement approach and governmental organization. It is not easy to apply such experiences to other countries where the circumstances differ, but the experiences can provide ideas and clues useful when devising measures to solve problems.

JICA, therefore, would like to invite as many leaders of partner countries as possible to come and visit us, to mingle with the Japanese people, and witness the advantages as well as the disadvantages of Japanese systems, so that integration of their findings might help them reach their developmental objectives.
